12. Obligations of the University

The University has the following obligations:

a) To execute the contracts for pre-doctoral trainee research staff in accordance with the terms established in this call.
b) To provide trainee research staff with the necessary support and offer use of the means, instruments or equipment necessary to carry out their work in normal conditions.
c) To ensure the proper development of the research staff training programme.
d) To ensure that no incompatibilities are incurred.
13. Participation in teaching activities

Acceptance of the grant automatically implies the trainee researcher's participation in a teaching programme, for educational purposes, which shall not exceed 60 hours per year over the three remaining years. Teaching participation in the first year will primarily be concentrated in the second semester and will not be of a heterogeneous nature.

This teaching collaboration will not, in any case, mean responsibility on the part of the trainee researcher for the subject or its programming.

This teaching must be certified by the departments involved, for curriculum purposes.

14. Incompatibilities of the grant

The position of trainee researcher under the terms of this programme is not compatible with any contractual or statutory relations that may reduce the exclusivity of dedication to research.

Payments can be authorised in relation to teaching activities (courses, conferences or lectures) or research activities (books or articles) that are directly associated to the research being carried out by the trainee research staff, as long as this is occasional and not regular.

Payment for such activities must be authorised by the Vice-Rector's Office for Academic Staff and Programming.

Financial support for attendance at congresses, meetings and seminars or for brief periods away from the university or temporary transfers, payable by public or private, national or foreign organisations, may be authorised as long as they are related to the research.

In the case of unforeseen incompatibility, the University has to withdraw the grant.

15. Contract Intermittences

In the event of leave of absence for reasons of maternity/paternity, adoption or permanent or pre-adoption fostering of children of less than six years of age, the contract shall be suspended for the period established in law for these cases.

Predoctoral trainee researchers have the right to a temporary sick leave for illness or accident. Temporary leave may be recovered as long as they are for a minimum of 30 days and if the budget allows for this.

Temporary suspension for reasons of maternity or paternity leave must be communicated and accredited with the Area of Academic Staff, Trainee Researchers and Research Support of the UAB. Beneficiaries must make the appropriate arrangement according to Social Security rules.

During the suspension of the grant Social Security payments will not be made by the university on behalf of the grant holder. Reincorporation after the interruption must be communicated at least 15 days before the date of return. Failure to return at the end of the period of interruption shall be considered as a withdrawal from the contract and will automatically terminate the agreement.

In accordance with Law 14/2011 of 1 June 2011 on Science, Technology and Innovation, periods of temporary leave during pregnancy, maternity, adoption or fostering, risk during lactation and paternity leave shall be exempt from the calculation of the duration of the contract.

When researcher have to be absent for reasons of study the corresponding permission must be applied for and this should receive prior authorisation from the director of the department and, where necessary, the director of the thesis.

16. Infringements and non-compliance

Total or partial non-compliance with the requirements and obligations established in this call for applications or other applicable rules will lead to the opening of a file detailing the non-compliance following a meeting with the interested party, and may lead to the application of the corresponding disciplinary code, in accordance with current employment legislation by the amount established according to the applicable criteria and the corresponding delay in accordance with Section II (Grant payments), Section III (Financial control) and Section IV (Infringements and sanctions of the General Grants Act) and Royal Decree 887/2006 of 21 July 2006 which approves Regulations for the General Grants Act 38/2003 of 17 November 2003.

The proportional criteria for infringements and non-compliance are the following:

Total and manifest non-compliance of the requirements and obligations for which the grant has been awarded, determined through mechanisms of scientific and technical monitoring and control will lead to the total withdrawal of the grant and, where necessary, loss of the right to any pending payments.

Any non-authorised modifications to the initial conditions of the grant and non-compliance with the partial objectives will require the quantity in question to be returned and where necessary, loss of the right to any pending payments.

Non-communication of activities that are incompatible could lead to a demand for the return of the grant for the time that the total or partial incompatibility lasts or the withdrawal of the grant.

Non-presentation of the necessary monitoring reports and additional documentation (course registration documents for each year), as stated as a previous requirement by the UAB will lead to the requirement to return the quantities received during the non-justified period.

Failure to comply with the measures of dissemination established in article 31.3 of the General Grant Regulations will lead to the requirement for partial repayment of the quantity corresponding to non-compliance.

Failure to declare previous receipt of any other kind of financial support or similar grants or the falsification of declared information shall lead to the requirement for part or full repayment of the quantity associated with this infringement and, where necessary, the loss of the right to any pending payments.
17. Evaluation and selection criteria

The departments will evaluate the merits of each candidate based on the academic transcript and curriculum vitae they have presented (completed Masters degrees, professional, experience, research, publications, papers, conferences, knowledge of languages etc.) and once this evaluation has been made for each applicant, and in line with their profiles and needs each department will produce a rank-ordered list of candidates in accordance with the criteria established in the standardised model.

The departments will then take this list and draw up a proposal of selected candidates, which will be sent to the Academic Staff Commission for approval.

18. Objections and Contentions

Interested parties may present any objections they consider opportune to the e-mail address supplied by the department for that purpose within a period of ten calendar days, counted from the day after the publication of the provisional and final lists of admissions, respectively.

Within a period of one month interested parties may present to the Rector a motion to appeal against decisions adopted in response to the aforementioned objections.

In accordance with the stipulations of article 111 of Spanish Law 30/1992, of 26 December, pertaining to the legal system for public administrations and common administrative procedure, the presentation of an appeal against the agreements and resolutions of the competent bodies does not imply any obligatory suspension of the execution of the actions against which the appeal is being made.

19. Data protection

The details provided by candidates will be included in a file owned by the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona for the purpose of managing the grant application and award process. In accordance with the provisions of Organic Law 15/1999, of 13 December, for the protection of personal data, those who wish may exercise their right, before the General Secretariat of the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, to access, rectify or cancel their details.
ANNEXE I
Recommendations for regularisation of signatures and particulars of UAB trainee researchers

We have revised the recommendations of the FECYT and we have compared them with the way in which these particulars are reviewed in the two most outstanding current bibliographical data bases for scientific literature, Scopus and Wok.

In all cases the recommendation to review all centres to which the researcher belongs is stressed so that they can be included correctly in the bibliometric indicators, impact factors, rankings etc. The difference lies in the recommendation of how to do so.

Once the two formulas (FECYT and Scopus/Web of Knowledge) have been seen we believe the easiest way and that which avoids any mistakes in the interpretation is to use the bibliographical data bases. In other words, to put as many call-outs beside the name of the author as beside the centres or institutions to which they are attached so that they can be identified as different centres.

We have also revised the PubMed (MedLine) as a reference data base for the medical field, but in this case only the contact address is reviewed and not the particulars of the different authors.

On the other hand, in addition to any recommendations, each journal has its own style guide and so the final review will depend on the indications received by the author at the time of presenting the article for publication.

Recommendations

The recommendation of the FECYT for the correct designation of the workplace in order to make the centres and institutions more visible and ensure reliability of, among other things, the bibliometric indicators, impact factors and rankings are as follows:

1. Authors must ALWAYS include details of their attachment to the university.

2. The particulars should appear in the following order: Group name (where appropriate) or department, centre or institute name (complete name in original language), institution on which it depends, postal address, city and country.
